

I want to express my feelings for all deaf people in their community in U.S where interpreters focus on video relay center instead of their own deaf community needs.

The situation in Rochester, NY; I am current senior student at community college. I was satisfied with the interpreters that met my needs at the college, even from my requirement to have a specified interpreter BEFORE video relay center established near RIT.

Now, Interprek (interpreter agency) took most of the professional (certification) interpreters on the video relay center and sent non-certification interpreters to the community. I was told that Interprek make more money at Video Relay Center than the community.

As for the English course, I was forced to take on-line course due to no interpreter available and there was one lack agile interpreter which I will not be satisfied for this semester!
